SYSTEM & SOFTWARE ADVANCED INTEGRATION

Maxi Data starts in 1982 as a Data Processing Center. Since 1989 the Firm turns heavily towards the Information Technology and Networking Markets, exploiting its well-established competences both in software design [custom-driven or internal specifications (software “platforms” list)] and, generally, in design and installation of Company IT Systems, including integrated environments with pre-existing information solutions at a national level.

More recently the Company has focused on new activities aimed at increasing competence and technological know-how with the objective of penetrating new market areas in several business sectors, above all the Italian wine industry.

Our Experience

Maxi Data offers a true strategic partnership with Customers. Our firm prides itself on over 25 years of experience in understanding and anticipating Customer's needs, thus helping them to achieve their goals.

Technical Competence

Our commitment in Research & Development is high. Careful screening of new technologies places us at the forefront of technical and technological offer.

Specific Solutions

Software platforms are devoted to specific business sectors (vertical platforms); at present, the core business of Maxi Data is Wine Industry. The product portfolio and our skills in developing complex custom-made solutions gives Maxi Data a high performing capacity within the market.

Customer Oriented

The activity of Maxi-Data is devoted to operational and system solutions, making use of the most up-to-date tools in order to achieve the best possible results in the field of information technology.

In our belief, selling a product or service is only a first step in deserving customer's confidence; the real goal being the ability to maintain them in the long term and making them part of our choices and a point of reference for the developing and implementation of new solutions.

WINE INDUSTRY

Maxi Data began the activity in the Italian Industry of Wine in 1987 developing a series of specific operational software for account books, warehouse management, sales documents and active and commercial customer management in cooperative wine growers associations and for wine industries.

The next step was the design and implementation of a range of new applications for Trade Associations, Wine Consultants, and Producers' Associations intended to give their own customers legal support for the management of the operative management of the small industry, mandatory book accounting, wine-making, enrichments, wine declarations in a practical way.

Operating at different levels of the Company management we increased our competences and improved our work increasing integration.

Therefore, Maxi Data plays a major role in the wine industry at a national level. The best evidence for that being the number of customers in the whole national territory.

INDUSTRIAL AUTOMATION

In 1990 a specific department started an industrial experience with the design and development of Industrial Automation solutions gaining know-how and competences in Process Control and Supervision Systems.

Our Consulting Team is actually a technological partner starting from layout design of Q.C., development on

PLC and SCADA systems.

The main fields of activity are the ecology and food sectors.

HEALTHCARE

In 1997 a new field of activity was introduced: Public and private Healthcare. These were inspired by an integrated vision of care and management of the patient, through the design and production of a comprehensive system for Spa management.

The system follows the patient from the reception and through all the process of patient care, improving the organization and control of the various departments and allowing a complete and detailed view of the whole structure.

The will of Maxi Data of continuing its activity in the Healthcare Sector is reinforced by the development of a new integrated software for medical analysis laboratories helping medical personnel in the identification of patient's samples, automatic distribution of tests to the various medical equipment, automatic collection of results and medical report.

SYSTEMS AND SOLUTIONS

Maxi Data can offer complete IT solutions: Consulting, Hardware, Software, Networking & TLC, System Integration, Intranet/Internet Portals supporting internal and business organization. All distributed products are selected within the best available tools and components.
